The Arkansas Oil Marketers Association (“AOMA”) has scheduled the date for its annual Environmental Workshop (“Workshop”).

The Workshop will be held on August 30th at the Holiday Inn Airport in Little Rock.

A focus of the workshop are the various environmental regulatory and legal issues associated with various types of facilities and operations that use, store, distribute, sell, process and refine petroleum products and fuels.

The speakers at the workshop will include:

- Carolyn Hoskinson, United States Environmental Protection Agency Office of Underground Storage Tanks
- Jarrod Zweifel, Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality Office of Land Resources – Remediation Senior Manager
- Gene Little, Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality Operator Training
- Amy Schluterman, Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality Contractor Licensing
- Ometra Okuwoash, Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality Petroleum Storage Tank Trust Fund
- Robert Morgan, Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality Regulated Storage Tank Inspector Supervisor

I will undertake a presentation at the Workshop titled:

Identifying and Addressing Environmental Issues in Petroleum Marketing Agreements

AOMA states that it will open registration in the next few days. I will provide an updated post with registration information at that time.

To contact AOMA by phone, call 501-374-6293.
